GERMAN NATION IS DIVIDED OVER THE REPARATIONS

LEADING PARTY LEADERS OP-POSE ANY ATTEMPT TO ABIDE BY TERMS

SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET A CABINET THAT WILL AGREE TO SIGN

CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Berlin, May 7.—Strong political elements in Germany served notice today that they will not accept the allied reparations demand.

Leaders of the democrats and Volks parties declared they would oppose any attempt to abide by the new terms. This attitude was represented by communists and other political organizations who are adding to the difficulty of forming a cabinet to replace the Fehrenbach ministry.

The centrists as well as the majority and independent socialists were adopting the view that they do not want to become responsible for cabinet members who for years to come would be blamed for signing the reparations demands.

Government officials hoped the attitude of political leaders might be altered later, and that by May 12 when the ultimatum expires there will be sufficient change in sentiment to prevent signature of the terms.

In event that the new cabinet is not organized by that date, it will fall upon Chancellor Fehrenbach and his associates, despite their resignation, to act for Germany in accepting the ultimatum. They are responsible for all government actions until their successors are inducted into office.

French Radicals Oppose Occupation

Paris, May 7.—Radical elements opposing allied occupation of the Ruhr district, clashed with gendarmes here today.

Shots were fired between groups of communists and squads of police in various workers' sections of the city. Only a few persons were wounded. In some instances soldiers came to the aid of the gendarmes.

Three leaders of the radicals, representing communists, were taken into custody as well as scores of lesser agitators.

Radicals throughout the city are planning a big demonstration today or tomorrow.

Payment of Allied Debt Depends on German Payments

Washington, May 7.—The allied debt to the United States was considered at the state department today in connection with the allied reparations demands to Germany.

The view of this government, it was learned, is that the ability of the allies to pay their debt depends largely on how fast Germany can be made to pay them. This it was believed will be a principal factor in the United States' insistence that Germany make adequate reparations when the unofficial American representatives resume their places with the representatives on the council of ambassadors.

At the same time officials refused to discuss the plan that Germany assume the allied debt to this country, nor the proposal that German bonds be sold here.

Lloyd George Hopes Germany Will Accept

London, May 7.—"I hope that Germany will be wise and accept the moderate reparations terms offered her," Premier Lloyd George declared today in speaking before a unionist mass meeting in Maidstone.

"If Germany disarms in accordance with the treaty, she will be able to ask the allies to compel Poland to observe the treaty in the same way."

HARDING ACCEPTS INVITATION OF THE SUPREME COUNCIL

TO HAVE AMERICAN REPRESENTATION ON COUNCIL AND ON REPARATIONS COM.

RAYMOND CLAPPER,

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 7.—President Harding having accepted the invitation to put representatives on the allied supreme council, the ambassadors conference and the reparations commission, was in a position today to inaugurate a disarmament movement among the powers.

It is believed Harding is considering a tentative plan for starting such a movement through Ambassador George Harvey who will sit with the allied supreme council. The other American representatives will be Ambassador Herrick at Paris who will attend the ambassadors' conference, and Roland W. Boyden, who will attend the meetings of the reparations commission.

The most important immediate tasks confronting American representatives are:

1.—Settlement of the reparations question without prostrating Germany economically.

2.—Securing recognition of American rights in disposition of former enemy territory such as the island of Yap and the Mesopotamian oil fields.

Harrison Twits Republicans

Washington, May 7.—President Harding's acceptance of the allied invitation for American representation in the supreme council, constitutes former President Wilson's plan in detail, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, democrat, declared in the senate today.

Harrison twitted the republicans for having reversed themselves on the promise to keep out of European affairs.

He called attention to the amusing picture of George Harvey, now ambassador to Great Britain, sitting in the allied supreme council with those men against whom he has poured out criticism.

"The league of nations will finally come around all right. That is what this all means. It means that the senate will finally come to an acceptance in detail of the plan Wilson proposed."

The report was that they would introduce them in evidence when the Stillman divorce hearings are resumed before Referee Gleason May 19.

Beneath the lining of the moccasins Beauvais is alleged to have written an inscription that may throw light on charges that he is the father of Guy.

The moccasins disappeared after having been left in the Stillman lodge, Grand Aunce, by Mrs. Stillman when she came south after her last visit there.

Beauvais, in a statement to the United Press, denied he bought the moccasins with his own money. He said he purchased them on the order of Mrs. Stillman and that she paid for them.

YOUR MOTHER

"Behold thy Mother."—John 19:27.

The 19th chapter of John contained the tragedy of Christ's crucifixion, yet He, in that hour of suffering and agony, did not forget Mary His mother. No man's sorrow was greater, no cross more galling, yet He provided for her whom He loved; a sublime lesson for every man, for all time.

Mothers shape the future for God's Kingdom and Man's progress. We have no greater power. Morally, a man never rises higher than his mother's prayer, neither can he get beyond them. He may go far on the road of Sin but Mother's prayers follow him.

Statesmen are powerful but Mother works in the raw material. Educators are worthy of honor, but Mother is the first Teacher in the University of the World. Physicians are influential but Mother is our own first healer and best nurse.

Artists paint with colors on canvas but Mothers give color to real life. Sculptors work on marble, Mothers on hearts. Writers weave the story, Mothers the life. Musicians vibrate the strings, Mothers, touch the harp of life and it vibrates ever more. Authors tell stories of life, but Mothers know the great story of real life. Orators tell of virtue, mothers implant it.

Mothers represent the great unexplored and the great unexpressed.

Boys tell mothers of secret hopes, and ambitions. Mother listens, encourages, and inspires. Her smiles are our first compensations, her faith, the guiding star that shines brightest when other lights are dim. As long as a boy believes in Mother, he is reasonably safe. When he loses faith in her, he enters the endless tunnel of despair.

Christ could have come to sinful earth some other way, but He came as we come, and coronated Motherhood, for all that is great and good.

Mother, the real mother, cannot really be represented by art, science, or philosophy. If you wish to see her monument, look around you.

Every sweet flower, every fragrant hope, every noble aspiration is traceable to that ONE who taught you how to pray as she taught you how to walk.

Be glad, son, if you resemble mother; you could not receive a greater compliment. And when she is gone "over there," you will see her image reflected in your eyes. Thus shall her picture be an ever present blessing. Martin Luther resembled his mother, so did Emerson and Gregory. Cromwell loved his mother better than any one else in the world. He saw her buried in Westminster Abbey. She was with him up to her ninetieth year.

The mothers of Mozart, Goethe, Scott, Augustine, and Stevenson were strong, splendid characters. Napoleon's axiom was that the future of the child depended entirely on the Mother. What more could he have said.

Others may love, but mothers understand. Others may esteem you, but Mother's love is as sacred as Heaven.

Son, you can have only one mother—There is no duplicate.

Since the morning stars sang together, and creation became complete, sunrise and sunsets follow, and rainbows shine in glory, but there is only one mother, therefore love her with a love supreme.

She does not ask for gold or glory—she just wants your faithful love; she wants your white soul of honor; she wants to live through you. The secret of her life is Mother love.

"The mind the ocean's secrets knows, Perfumes the lily, paints the rose. That counts each star that shines above, Alone can fathom Mother love."

America honored herself when Mothers' Day was recognized. The white flower we wear then is emblematic of that unsullied power that sweeps from shore to shore, the earth ground. Time changes much but Mother's love is with us yet and gives us hope.

A CREED IN HONOR OF MOTHER

—To seek first her comfort, and to confer pleasure.

You can't make a better resolution—let her pleasure be your first consideration. Long years she toiled for you. You were first in her heart, enshrine her first in yours now.

—To lift all the burdens you can from her shoulders.

You are strong, your life currents are vigorous. The tide of her life slows down as she gets near to the western slope. Now is the time to prove yourself a worthy son of a noble mother. Make her life as pleasant as you can. You will be happy when you remember this, years after she has been crowned up yonder.

—To meet her with that true courtesy which you owe to your truest, noblest friend.

Don't put thorns in your pillow by forgetting her. Don't omit little attentions. You are, in her eyes, a big, strong hero. Don't disappoint her expectations but measure up to her hopes.

—To bear patiently with her failings.

When you get where she is, you will have some peculiarities that other people will have to overlook. Be magnanimous and remember these grew up while she was teaching you the way of life and peace. No one may claim perfection, but a mother is close to that state.

—To respect her religion. That is what has made her great and noble in God's sight.

She may have some old fashioned ideas, but the old time religion is a fine thing to develop the heroic in men and women. Never let her feel that you think she is out of date, or out of touch with the world. We need millions of her kind to keep the world on even keel. Your mother is worth a million of the "new fangled kind"—in fact, your mother's life is of infinite value in God's sight; it should be in yours. Remember, some day the angels will come and convey her spirit to Heaven. Be sweet to her now, then there will be no regrets.

"If I were hanged on the highest hill, Mother-o'-mine, I know where tears would come me still, Mother-o'-mine, If I were damned of body and soul, sea, Mother-o'-mine, I know where tears would come down to me, Mother-o'-mine, If I were damned of body and soul, Mother-o'-mine, I know whose tears would make me whole, Mother-o'-mine."

—Kipling.

"Behold thy mother." There is no face, no heart, no love like hers!

JUST TO THINK.
 While driving through Yellowstone park we came to some muddy, clay-like ground. Father happened to see a small shack in from the road and decided to go over to see who lived there. When he was about half way across the field he noticed a slight movement in the ground. Going over he found a hole about six inches wide. Thinking it was an animal hole he got down on his knees to peer in. We saw a man come running from the hut, waving his arms excitedly. Father did not hear him because, as he said afterward, he heard a low growling in the hole. Then the "animal" came out. "It" jumped up five feet in the air. Father's animal was a mud geyser, and it covered him from head to feet with yellow mud. The man, when he reached father, pointed smilingly to a sign which read: "Geyser No. 127. Spouts every 35 minutes." We have never ceased to tease father about his animal.—Chicago Tribune.

Peacock Feathers Disliked.

Peacock feathers are looked upon as unlucky in many countries. Their mere possession is reputed to be a harbinger of misfortune to the owner. Every kind of loss will have to be sustained by the occupants of the house they adorn, including illness and death, and many country people, even now, would be horrified if any one were to bring under a roof one or more of these feathers. It is further said that children will never be healthy in rooms adorned with these iridescent plumes, and that it is the most unlucky thing in the world to give a peacock feather to the youngsters.

The Moth's Song.

In contrast with a host of buzzing relatives, the moths are a silent tribe. This makes the death's-head moth all the more conspicuous in having a voice with which it makes a sound something like a mouse's squeak, which can be heard at a distance of several yards. It appears from a recent learned investigation that while the cricket and cicada, and indeed all other tuneless insects, are comparable to fiddlers or other members of a stringed band, the death's-head moth really is a vocalist making its song with its mouth, on the reed pipe plan on which land animals depend. If the insects should get up a concert, the death's-head moth is the only voice they could muster. Was it the provocation of his name that made him find a voice and lift it up in protest?

THINK WITHOUT FEAR OF DEATH.
 One of the reasons the Turks used to be such good soldiers was because contempt for life is the essence of the faith for which they fought. "Divinely calm" are words that have been employed to describe the profound and complete resignation to the will of Allah which is an integral part of the Mohammedan faith. The pious Mohammedan has ever present in his mind the end of earth and the beginning of life beyond. The Turk is said to consider himself as an individual camped in the world, as his nation has so long been camped in Europe. And he considers the joys of life only shadows in comparison with the everlasting delights which await him in paradise.

Bull-Fighting in Japan.

In the district of Shikoku, Japan, they have bull fighting that is really bull fighting, and not a man versus bull. Instead of setting armed men on horseback to kill a bull, they match one bull against another in an exciting form of the sport that is seen probably nowhere else in the world. This diversion is Shikoku's very own, and it has been conducted in exactly this way for so long that its origin is lost in the mist of time. The people are very proud of the pastime and turn out in large numbers for the contests. The fighting bulls are carefully trained from calfhood for this very purpose. And pampered creatures they are, too, sleek and powerful. They wear pretty collars like pet dogs, the colors and texture varying. The public decides by acclamation which bull is the victor of the contest, which often is quite a bloody combat. The winner is then decorated with ribbons and for reward is given an extra fine dinner.

Good Rules for Life's Conduct.
 Never despise anything because it seems wanting in brilliancy. Learn to recognize virtue and honor and excellence, no matter how lowly the garb or humble the dwelling in which you find them. The only thing to do with any excellence is, love it; with honor, emulate it; with virtue, reverse it; and the highest compliment you can pay to character is, possess it.—Selected.

The cost of manufacturing Elcars has decreased and in accordance with the fixed policy of this company the saving has been passed on to the public.

For months this car has been selling below cars in its class and this further reduction places a real automobile within reach of those who contemplate buying a smaller car.

Mechanically the Elcar contains nationally known units that most of the notably high-grade cars have in common. It embodies the work of world's best automotive engineers, supplemented by work of our own unexcelled engineering department. The result is a chassis that is an engineering triumph.

Come in and see the car. Compare it part by part with cars selling for hundreds of dollars more. Examine the beautiful bodies, then ride in it. You will be astonished.

Few Have Seen Radium.
Radium is a metal that is described as having a white metallic luster. It has been isolated only once or twice, and few persons have seen it. It is ordinarily obtained from its ores in the form of sulphate, chloride or bromide, according to the United States geological survey, Department of the Interior, and it is in the form of these salts that it is usually sold and used.
These are all white or nearly white substances, whose appearance is no more remarkable than that of common salt or baking powder. Tubes containing radium salts glow mostly because they include impurities which the radium salts from the radium cause to give light. Radium minerals are occasionally of great importance.

MOTHERS

Mother is a big subject. Poetry, prose and music have told the story so well, that it mystifies one where to begin and where to leave off.

After much thinking, I just took a stroll down the path of my life and peeped into the homes along the way. I saw girl mothers, women mothers, aged mothers, widowed mothers, step mothers, foster mothers, and mothers-in-law. They stood at different angles, but they all were mothers. There were few unnatural mothers, as some are called (for on investigation I found that these mothers were discouraged, crushed and starving for the love and sympathy of a righteous husband. All that underlies motherhood was still with them.)

As I peered in at the open door of these bygone homes I saw children around tables of wholesome food and under the same roof at night, I saw five, seven and even more pillowed upon clean beds. When the clock announced the first hour of morning I saw tired women lay the last article of mending upon the stack of night work, extinguish the light and retire. As she went I thought I heard soft voice saying "Press on good and faithful servant, for yours is the kingdom of Heaven."

When the summer light was golden and the breezes soft, I heard a mother teaching her daughter the way of life, and this is her story. "The girl must grow up strong and healthful, overcoming ignorance and cleaving to wisdom. She must learn well each task of the household, she must cultivate a kind and loving disposition—having compassion and consideration for all about her. Above all she must love and cherish the dear father who had worked for her since she was born. She was the apple of his eye and she must not disappoint him."

Then somewhere upon earth there was a man in search of an upright woman, longing for the love and sympathy that only a woman can give him. If she fell short of his ideals of womanhood, heaven and earth might pass from him.

Again, when the winter hours were on, I saw another in counsel with her son. They sat by the fire and an open book was in her lap. She strove to impart to the lad at her knee the strength and character of the Master. "Son," she said, "you must grow up clean, brave and strong. Willing to labor and learn never yielding to the belittling things of life. Follow in your big brave father's footsteps and heed the call of the Master. Honor and obey your parents and always have great respect for your sisters and all other girls whom you meet. Always be what a son should be to his father, a blessing and comfort. Boy, do you know that somewhere in this world there is a girl longing for the love and protection of a strong, true-hearted man? Her future is in your keeping and if you are a man, she shall be happy, but if you are not a man her life shall be dark and dreary."

As I strolled back to the present, I said, "No wonder great men have come out of such homes, and no wonder that poet and musician have honored these teachers and rulers so highly. Surely every man, woman and child will come out to church on Mothers' Day, to hear sermon and song, praise their mothers."

You, who shall wear a pink carnation on that day, great is your joy.

for your treasure is still with you, you know what treasure is in that firm old woman who works and walks so stiffly, who has the best chair in your home. You know what made her so. Those clean beds, that wholesome food, that light in the small hours of the morning and a thousand, thousand other services and sacrifices. You love her, she is drawing near to the line of departure. Oh, wearer of the white carnation, your duties have ceased, your privileges gone. She has crossed the line, but she is not gone. You hear her voice, you see her look of approval or disapproval. She still lingers in your home to comfort and bless—a sweet and pleasant memory.

The ladies in charge of tag day, Mrs. C. L. Burnett and Mrs. R. A. Beise are to be complimented in the very efficient way in which everything was handled. Brainerd is very much indebted to them and to all the women who made tag day such a success.

The outstanding feature of this tag day was the large number of givers, extra tags were ordered twice to supply the demand. The general interest and understanding of the work are greater than formerly and considering the times and many appeals for money the response was most gratifying.

The shop men did not all pay at the gates but many gave generously over town after cashing their checks. Tag day was planned and conducted quietly and the result shows the substantial appreciation of the men and women of Brainerd for public health.

It augurs well for future community health undertakings which appeal to the judgment of the people. Besides assisting with the boxes, many women helped in tying tags and in other ways whose names are not mentioned below. The teachers were of very special help and the pupils in the schools backed the work up loyally.

Study of "Instinct"

It is a matter of some dispute just to what extent the actions of animals are determined by pure unreasoning instinct. It has been stated that a frog will snap at any small moving object regardless of its character, and of hunger or satiety. Some experiments seem to indicate that the frog is capable of greater discriminations than has been credited to him. Thus, for example, a frog was offered hairy caterpillars, which it promptly seized, and with equal promptness spit out again. But after about four to seven such injudicious attempts the frog had learned his lesson, and thereafter refused similar fare. In another experiment earthworms were so connected with a source of electricity that the frog received a shock on touching the worm. The frog duly devoured the prey, and showed no sign of discomfort. However, he refused for seven days to touch another earthworm. Similarly, the frog would be taught to avoid worms in which oil of cloves had been spread, although such "doctored" prey was not spit out, but only digested.

300 ACRES TIMBER BURNED FRIDAY

Forest Fire Does Much Damage at East End of North Long Lake, Parkerville Threatened

40 MEN OUT FIGHTING FIRE

Forest Ranger P. N. Swedberg of Moose Lake Summoned Help from Brainerd in Afternoon

A forest fire which burned up 300 acres of timber, jackpine and mixed timber, raged Friday afternoon on the east end of North Long lake and for a period threatened Parkerville.

Forest Ranger P. N. Swedberg of Moose Lake, ranger in charge of this territory, summoned help from Brainerd and Clyde E. Parker and Frank S. Workman responded with a lot of volunteers, taking them to the scene in high powered cars. No buildings were destroyed by the flames.

The men worked with a will and eventually got the fire under control. At night watchmen were continued at the scene to see that the mbers did not fan into another blaze.

Fire Laws

Forest Ranger Swedberg says many people are not posted regarding fire laws. No burning of timber slashings is allowed without a permit. Any one burning slashings without a permit is subject to a severe penalty.

The country has never been so dry as it is at present in the vicinity of Brainerd.

Buddhist Priests Tame Fish.

There is a certain bend of a certain river in Burma, where the fish are venerated, tamed, treated as pets and called to meals by priests. Just why this particular bend of this special river should be so signally set apart is not known, but as these priests are Buddhists there is perhaps a connection between this favoritism and the fact that in every land where Buddhism is the faith, there are certain places dedicated to Buddha, and strange superstitions woven about the place. These fish are a species of catfish which grow to a large size, and they swim to the bank when called. The priests not only feed the fish, but they pet them as we do a dog or a cat. Some are so tame they do not even squirm in fright when they are picked out of the water and gently handled.

"JOLLIES OF 1921" A GLOWING SUCCESS

Crowded House Witnessed First Night at the New Park Theatre on Friday, May 6

SHOW IS REPEATED TONIGHT

Elks Minstrels Appear in a Radiant
Burst of Songs, Melody, Jokes, Dancing, Etc.

"The best minstrel show seen in Brainerd in years", is the general verdict of the large audience which flocked to the New Park theatre on the opening night, Friday, May 6, to see "The Jollies of 1921" as given by Brainerd Lodge of Elks No. 615.

Every act, every scene went over with the loudest applause from an audience that was responsive through out the entire program to the ever-present cleverness portrayed by the Brainerd home talent. The Elks were proud of the success of Friday night's performance, proud of Brainerd home talent and of the fine directing work of the Bren production company, and of its show committee headed by Eugene White.

Scenery, costumes, music were of the most gorgeous type. What appealed to many was the pretty costumes. The ladies luxuriated in the loveliest gowns, the interloper and assistants blossomed in full dress, the minstrels were resplendent in Skinners satin suits in which the purple of the Elks' colors predominated.

The song hits were new and the jokes cleverly put over by the show's snappy comedians, who kept a continuous roar of laughter going throughout the show.

Opening Scene

The opening scene revealed the winter home of H. P. Dunn of Palm Beach, Florida. He is the host at a surprise party given in his honor by a few of his Brainerd friends who are spending the winter months in Palm Beach.

The guests are the Misses Doris Edwards, Grace Oberg, Ruth Wilson, Irene Rowley, Irene Tureotte, Mayme Sealten, Marcella Kampman, Norma Brady, Delilah Koop, Mrs. Mal Clark, Mrs. Harry Carlson, Mrs. Norman Ziebel, Messrs: Conney Shelio, Abner Swanson, Harry Butler, John Bye and Eugene White.

The comedians are Messrs. Raymond DeRoche, Herbert Peterson, Fritz Koop, Wallace Hooker, Carl Adams, Norman Ziebel, Ed Cain and Ditt Wilson.

The balladists are Messrs. A. C. Mraz and Dr. A. K. Cohen.

The harmonists are Messrs. Harry Carlson, Harry Wolvert, Dr. M. H. Carlson, Willard Giles, Harold Jones, Ray Engstrom, Desmond Hurley and Chester Carjola.

"We're Delighted", sung by the guests, was the opening chorus. Mrs. Mal Clark sang "Starland" so beautifully that she was recalled and later sang again between acts. "The Merry Minstrels" was sung by the guests, and the opening melody given by the entire company followed. H. P. Dunn proved to be an ideal interloper and gained high praise.

Then came songs, "My Mammy" by Ed Cain; "Save a Little Dram for me" by Carl Adams; "Rose" by A. C. Mraz; "I Wasn't Scared" by Wallace Hooker; "Um-hum" by Ray DeRoche; "There's a Vacant Chair in Home Sweet Home" by Dr. A. K. Cohen; "Sweet Mamma, Tree Top Tall" by Ditt Wilson of the Bren company. Every number was well rendered and recalls were frequent.

Finale of Minstrel

"If They'll Only Play My Wedding March in Ragtime" sang Miss Norma Brady, assisted by the end men and the company, and in marched the wedding cast. The bride was Ray DeRoche; the groom Wallace Hooker; the bride's father Fritz Koop; the parson Ditt Wilson; the bridesmaids Carl Adams and Ed Cain; the groomsmen Herbert Peterson and Norman Ziebel. The wedding was an uproarious one and terminated in an armistice of some kind, with the heavy bride sobbing and the tall bridegroom protesting.

The Awkward Squad

In scene I of act II Ray DeRoche and Ed Cain put on "Up and Down Broadway", filled with rapid fire jokes. They were followed by the awkward squad, captained by Wallace Hooker. The end men put up the drill manual in new fashion, outshining any rookies that ever grew.

Peachie Chorus

The song and dance novelty, "Peachie", had Miss Delilah Koop as soloist. The Peachie girls were the Misses Edna Mahlum, Ella Olson, Geraldine Kiebler, Irene Quinn, Myrtle Shelio, Georgia Frost, Dorothy Carmichael, Mrs. M. H. Carlson. Costumes were of the prettiest and the girls sang as well as any Florida cant. Like every other feature they were recalled and sang again.

Ray DeRoche in Monolog

Ray DeRoche was excellent in his monolog as he was in all his other work. Ray put on a finished line of talk, song and dance and any day would give Beach & Bowers or the best exponent of minstrelsy a run for his money. Ray didn't try to act, he was just as natural up on the stage as when he's coaching a ball team.

Scene IV

Scene IV revealed splendid singing by the quartet, A. C. Mraz, Dr. A. K. Cohen, John Bye and Wallace Hooker and they were recalled.

The saxophone quartet consisted of Dr. M. H. Carlson, Ernest Crust, Winfred Edling and Ben Kaufman and in the male orchestra joined in. Encore after encore was demanded and given.

Then followed the fox trot ball, introducing many strikingly pretty costumes.

The mind reading episode reflected great credit on A. C. Mraz appearing as Prince Al Ben Boozle and his manager Eugene White. On short notice they replaced two gentlemen first selected and by strict application in short time mastered the sketch. Mr. Mraz plays the part of the prince gifted with supernatural mental powers. Mr. White assists him in reading the minds of the people in the audience, taking valuables from different persons while the prince blindfolded, tells what has been taken.

"Songs of the Past," featuring A. C. Mraz, Mrs. Mal Clark, Miss Delilah Koop and entire company, brings the show to a close.

Mrs. Leo Rifenrath excelled as accompanist throughout rehearsals and at the show Friday and Saturday the regular Park theatre orchestra was added to the piano score.

The producing manager of the show was Ditt Wilson of the Bren company.

The ticket sale is now on and a big house is expected this Saturday night. Little Falls, range towns, and many towns from Brainerd lodge jurisdiction are expected to be represented in tonight's audience.

CREPE DE CHINE IS POPULAR

Fabric Strongly Featured in French Capital and Is Expected to Assert Sway Here.

Crepe de chine at present is one of the most featured frock fabrics in the French capital and undoubtedly it will assert its sway in this country. It is also one of the most durable of lingerie materials and triumphed with point de Paris, or Calais lace or tucked in the more tailored modes fashions some of the smartest of undergarments.

Crepe satin, radium, gros de Londres and georgette are other fabrics, while Carriacross, rose fillet and Irish crochet are laces in vogue as trimmings. Besides white and flesh, such shades as raspberry, neptune green, honeydew and jonquil are popular.

The Parisian is very partial to the long chemise or princess slip. Some of these are developed in georgette with many rows of pliffs, others are trimmed with lace, fillet and Calais, the lace often being cascaded from the hips and draping to the hem.

Platted satin ribbon is used to form the bodice on some of the newest slips; the skirt usually being of georgette under lace.

SPEEDWELLS TO PLAY FT. RIPLEY

Expects to Give a Good Account of Itself Sunday

GAME TO BE CALLED AT 3 P. M.

Playing List of Speedwells Given—
Fort Ripley Refused to Disclose
Its Hand

Playing under the management of A. Smraker, the Speedwells Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock will play Ft. Ripley. A hot game is expected, because these two towns always have the best of amateur talent and show good team work in their playing. Scores are always close and the last inning often changes a game which appeared to have been on ice or sewed up at the seventh inning stage.

Here is the Speedwell array of talent: Long catcher; Stallman or Gustafson pitcher; Nels Molstad first base; W. Molstad second base; L. Imgrund, short stop; Roderick third base; Shelio left field; Belfy center field; Gaskill right field; Caron and Clark utility.

Fort Ripley refused to show its hand and the Speedwells have but small idea as to who they are to face Sunday afternoon at Ft. Ripley.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

Brainerd housewives who had the chance scanned the Cass Lake Times of May 5 with deep interest. In bold headlines it proclaimed "Pickles Raised for Markets". Now you can grow cucumbers and then salt them and inject the vinegar and eventually pickle the cucumber into a pickle, but you can't raise a pickle. The pickle is simply a metamorphosed cucumber.

Leave Prayer Rugs.

It is the life desire of every Mohammedan to journey to the holy city of Mecca and in preparation for this pilgrimage he spends many years making his own praying carpet. This carpet he eventually leaves behind in Mecca which now contains millions of carpets left by pilgrims.

BESTOWING PLUMS NO EASY MATTER

PRESIDENT HAS MUCH TROUBLE
IN SELECTING MEN FOR THE IMPORTANT PLACES.

APPLICANTS ARE NUMEROUS

Each Has Strong Backing and Conflicting Claims of Sponsors Create Confusion—Several Cases That Illustrate This Condition.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—The air of Washington is still strident with the voices of the office seekers, who are becoming a little less clamorous as days go by, but there will be some time before stridency in demand gives way to paths in pleading.

The office seekers thus far have not had an entirely happy time. There were numbers of offices which it was known were to be filled, and there was every belief that President Harding as quickly as possible would start the work of naming names, but if Mr. Harding had any thought that he was to have an easy task of selection, a change of thought came to him quickly.

Barring one or two places as assistant secretaries to cabinet officers, it seems that no job could be assigned to any applicant without trouble with the sponsors of some dozens of other applicants for each place. It was easy enough to select Theodore Roosevelt, for instance, for the post of assistant secretary of the navy, but when the President came to thinking on the proper man for assistant secretary of war, that was something else.

One or two assistant secretaries in other departments were named quickly, but there were hitches here and there in cases where a cabinet officer had not picked his own man in advance and insisted on his appointment.

When Mr. Harding began naming men for places he had proceeded hardly an inch down the line of names before he ran into trouble. It seems that delegations of senators and representatives from different states individually had picked on certain men for certain places.

Some of Mr. Harding's Troubles.

It is pretty well known that each of half a dozen different state delegations in congress wanted to name its man for the place of assistant secretary of war. It was all fixed apparently that Thomas W. Miller, a member of the American Legion, director of the speakers' campaign in the East during the Harding campaign and former worker in the pre-convention cause of Leonard Wood, was to be chosen for the post of assistant secretary of war.

It was pretty definitely known also that Secretary Weeks recommended Miller and that the President approved. However, state delegations, one powerful delegation in particular, interfered and another Legion man was given the place. The President and the secretary of war seemingly feeling that they must acquiesce, Miller, however, was given the important post of alien property custodian.

Then along came the day for the appointment of a commissioner of internal revenue, a highly responsible place in this day of prohibition. The Republicans of North Carolina, of Tennessee, Illinois, Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, had their candidates for the place. There were some thirty other men who were endorsed by Republican party workers of higher or lower degree who did not happen to be members of congress.

Apparently it was fixed at one time that the place was to go to Col. Edward Clifford of Evanston and Chicago, who was backed by the two United States senators from that state. In fact, so certain did it seem that Clifford was to be named that the appointment was announced as an assured fact of the immediate future, but something happened and the job went to David H. Blair of Winston-Salem.

This shift of intention in the matter of the commissioner of internal revenue upset all calculations in the case, of course, and made men believe that all calculations in other cases might be upset. So, many of them have been.

President Harding has had to shuffle and re-shuffle the patronage pack before dealing. It is perfectly apparent here that he has not followed in many instances his first inclinations in passing out trump cards. Men who expected to draw aces have had to take kings and queens, and some of them have had to be satisfied with jacks and ten-spots.

It can be said that disappointments have been taken with patience and fortitude, or with a close counterfeited thereto. No man who expected to be called to a higher place, and who has been told to take a lower place, has complained out loud, so far as one can determine. There seems to be a realization among the delegations in congress and among the men for whom they are sponsors, that the appointing power cannot satisfy everybody, and that of course when several men are known to be equally fit for an office, other elements must enter into the matter of appointments.

His Awful Thought.
Wavren was an only child, and there being no boys in the neighborhood he was obliged to play with girls, of whom there were a number. One day he appealed to his father to move, saying: "Dad, if you don't get me away from here and let me play with boys, I am afraid I'll grow up to be a regular..."

Sausages.
Surprising as it may seem, there are 1,700 different varieties of sausages in the world today. All nationalities love certain national dishes, and some form of sausage seems included in the cuisine of every country. China makes sausages, and very good ones, from the eastern point of view. Germany is pre-eminently a sausage-eating nation. Great quantities of this food are consumed by the people of Latin countries. In Italy and France they are eaten more as a relish than as a dish, and the noonday meal often commences with thin slices of cold sausage, flanked with a few olives and a pat of fresh butter. Sausages in France are associated with certain festive days, and a kind of blood sausage is always served at the Christmas eve supper. Neither is sausage a modern food, born of economy and the utilizing of meat scraps. The town of Koenigsburg, Germany, in 1553, celebrated the national dish by making a bologna sausage more than 1000 feet long.
